If anyone has any questions regarding the rights of the music I post, please contact me through OO.

A sister and I have spent many hours so we could make this music available. She played on most of the music I will be posting. She wants the music to be as much of blessing as I do.

Sadly, some of the songs are flawed due to the original form of the music we own. We still hope it blesses all who listen.

This is a huge work in progress. Don't change that dial.....

Blessings,

Thanks James! Spent day six going over music and getting it from tape to CD to computer, titles on the songs, credits to the authors, proofing, etc. We still have more to do.

Most of this project involves real time to transfer and proof. There are about 10 CD's so far and about 80 to 90 songs from very talented people who went to FA. After that, we will start putting them on OO with help from moulder for all to enjoy and download for their use.

I have wanted to do this for so long. With the help of a sister who helped make most of the music when we were at FA, it is now possible.

I am so excited about this project. Thanks for the patience while we figure out all of this.

At last!!! With the help of Sister Linda, I mean a lot of help with the computer, the music is here!

We have yet to label each song in this format. Linda is taking a much needed break until February. When she returns, we will get with moulder and continue to edit and label. Until then, you can enjoy the music and just guess what the title is!

I am labeling each song as follows:

Song Title: Author Copyright

This will protect each and every author and their families if a situation would arise regarding who wrote and owns the music. I have the original tapes, the CD's we made from those tapes, and in some cases, the words on paper. All are copyrighted as we speak.

I will gladly receive any input or ideas concerning this matter. I just want the original authors to get credit, especially if someone would try to claim the piece as thier own or stealing the music if you will.

We do have Bro. Steve's music ready for sharing too. We have been in touch with him and Pam. We are waiting to hear what the Lord would have him do. It is possible that he might put his music on CD, which would be very exciting. If that is the case, it would reach many people and minister much life. I am sure he would appreciate your prayers regardless.

Here is the link to the music:

Thanks to moulder, Linda (who plays the flute on some of the songs), to Jesus for protecting the music all of these years, and for your patience.

Just a note for those who are interested:

I will be posting The Story of Jane , two tapes (CD's) about Smith Wigglesworth, and another song tape. It will take a couple of weeks.

In the meantime, I will keep digging for more "stuff."

Linda and I have 4 sermons by Pastor Stormont about Smith Wigglesworth, a talk Mrs. Stan Hill (Edna) gave at a ladies luncheon, The Story of Jane tape, and another song tape to put on the Godislife site.

We are having some trouble getting them on the site. In doing so, the other tapes erased. We will be putting all of this on again as soon as we can get with moulder.

Thanks for your patience.

The Story of Jane is now availble on the new music site.

People have mixed feelings about this tape. Some feel it is so demonic in nature that is should not be reviewed. Some feel it is just entertainment.

Some people, myself included, feel that it is a tool for learning about delieverance, positive thinking and confession, etc. I have learned a lot by listening to it.

In any case, it is now available for listening, or not listening to it.

The Story Of Jane; does anyone know the history of this? Who was the Preacher, when it was done (year) and location? There is a Youtube video "The True Story Of The Excercist" which is interesting but sad on how the Catholics handle "excorcism".
