Gary mentioned Canada's prime minister talking of selling out to China, I think America has sold out to China far more than people realize. They own 200,000 acres of prime farmland in heartland America. They hold over a trillion dollars of US debt.

They own many major companies (General Motors, General Electric, AMC, Spotify, Snapchat, Hilton Hotels, part of Walt Disney)

I'm not a conspiracy nut but the coronavirus has been traced to a city in CHINA, Wuhan. There is still a debate as to it's origin, a bat or a lab.

Interesting question James.

It seems everywhere you turn today you hear about China. I just read an article about China having spies everywhere in the American gov't spy agencies and everywhere else. It's not limited to America either. A huge problem in Canada. Huge todo here right over 2 Chinese scientists working here in a top-secret lab. Fired escorted off the premises and put on a plane out of the country. The gov't won't tell us why. Really big issue here. Australia recently got into a big war of words with China over their reach into their society involving tit of tat consequences. Plus they are extending their influence all over Africa.

Not only that but they control almost all the rare earth minerals that are so essential to modern technology. They also manufacture all those thingmes that control cars and everything else that makes everything run.

They have extended their reach everywhere. Huawei is a global communications giant. All the western world (except Canada apparently) has banned the technology from Gov't installations because of the spyware in it. They became a huge giant company because they stole all the patents and info from a Canadian company (Northern Telephone later Nortel) that subsequently went bankrupt. For some reason successive Canadian gov'ts have never addressed that issue.

Its like our western democracies are just asleep. Its kind of ironic and will never be admitted to by the left but it was mainly Trump who first blew the horn on China.

To repeat something I have said before something has to happen in regards to China and the antichrist. For him to come into full power there cannot be another major power to oppose him. In my opinion (and its only an opinion) There will be a nuclear war between china and India possibly including Pakistan.

Sorry to hijack your thread but there is just a lot to say on this subject. The reach of China in the modern world is extensive. Now that I think about it almost supernatural.
