I just saw on the news that a NYC 'bishop' was robbed at gun point while preaching, and it was caught on video. I Googled it after the brief news clip to see more about this fellow and his claiming to be a bishop. He said that the jewelry taken from him and his wife was valued at more than a million dollars, and that his car was a Rolls Royce. He said he often was criticized for his possessions and flamboyant lifestyle, but said he worked hard for 'his' money and could purchase whatever he liked.

I read that he's tight with the mayor and local government officials.

Prosperity gospel...one of the most destructive, deceptive, false doctrines that has ever been sent forth from the pit of hell, is alive and thriving in these later days.

I read that. How could anyone wear a million dollars of jewellery. I have nothing against wealth but when that's your focus something is wrong. Just going by the story something seems very odd about it.
