In times of hate and rejection, we have it made. When spending time by the Spirit in the N.T. it amazes me how much God tells me he loves and forgives me. If God has any issues with me he shows it in his gentle loving way. He knows that I have a quick apology thing with him.

It is a awesome thing to partake of the bread and cup often. I just received a healing based on that ordinance. As we press in for the prize and strive to be one with Christ, we pray for the Lord to deliver us through temptations. Our prayer life is what helps us be more and more righteous like him.

The Lord sent me here and removed the hacker attack from that. I know that to be true and am not just saying that. liars are not considers overcomers right?
