I've been enjoying recently, a website that is filled with little known accounts that highlight God's work in creation.

This brother has done an incredible amount of research in putting together these accounts.

Of course, as with almost anything, there's a certain amount of subjectivity involved in determining what constitutes a sign, or a wonder, but I'm sure you'll be better off having all of these accounts to parse as you go about exercising your own judgment in these matters!
