May the Spirit of God bless all my true brethren with grace abundantly. May his mercy and forgiveness flow out from me as well as him. Don't forget to pray special for tomorrow, it is a halloween day, and full moon. I confess by the power of the name of Jesus , and refute all curses going out to disturb God's people. May we all praise him and worship in Spirit and in truth the glorious ,holy , mighty, sovereign, great high priest and prince of peace, the Lord Jesus Christ, amen and amen.

Welcome and Greetings Broday9!

Thank you for your edifying post, it is a blessing to see

God's hand in peoples lives. Halloween is such a popular day of celebration, unfortunately many christians are deceived into thinking there is no harm in kids dressing up and getting candy, but they are not realizing what pagan celebration they are actually partaking of.

I sure hope you continue post what things the Lord is doing in your life, as it is always a blessing to all to see God's faithful to us. May the Lord continue to bless you with peace and grace.

I heard one commentator that 10-31 is Reformation Day because Luthor nailed his thesis to the door that day.

This is the first time I have heard of this designation.

Have you noticed it before??

Yeah, I have...according to church history October 31 was the day Martin Luther nailed the 95

Theses to the church door in Wittenberg. I don't know of any church or group that makes a big celebration of it though. Certainly not like Halloween...

Although today I did see, on a Catholic TV channel, a Mass given to celebrate 'All Saints Day', they even had one of the Popes right hand guys come over to 'bless' the event. How formal, how traditional, how dead. Praying to dead people to pray for living people...a form of Godliness.
