I'd be suprised if everyone here hasn't heard this but in case you haven't

It starts at about the 30 sec mark.

Someone else I read on the internet did some research and says it is not true.

My take on it is that it makes perfect sense. The entire caribbean area is prospering. The other half of the island is prospering. Tourism is booming. Except for Haiti. They haven't any tourism. They can't seem to keep a government. Violence is endemic. One of the former leaders Papa Doc/ Baby Doc were steeped in Voodoo. etc.

The media is full of course with condemnation of Robertson. I don't particularly like the guy but I think he is right here.

Something like this could easily be repudiated but it would require the churches to gather together and take authority
