This is to edify those who will realize God is working behind the scenes of their life.

My wife said my jacket looked horrible and should wear something else. Meanwhile was looking for a opportunity to find something this past year. One week after she said my coat is bad, she was cleaning out a closet we don't use. That closet was being prepared for guests who do use it. It is our second home. She found a brand new coat that looks like it never had been worn before. it is heavy with wind breaker material and a removable hood. it reminds me of the statement, you already have it before you ask. Praise God.
