Well it looks like now East Africa, Iraq along with Saudi Arabia along with others is being over run with billions of locusts. I seen a clip with a guy showing them crawling up his pants, those things are huge.

This will wipe out a large part of the vegetation. A number of clips have been shown on facebook. At this point I'm having trouble trying to find news agencies covering the story.

Heres one from the BBC: <https://www.bbc.com/news/in-pictures-51618188>

This isn't making light of this at all, but I was reminded of John the Baptist living in the wilderness and eating locusts and wild honey. I wonder if this is the same type locusts he ate 2,000 years ago? I do know they are high in protein and are eaten in some cultures.

I thought the same exact thing, was this the type of locust that John the Baptist ate when he was on the earth.
