You are doing what you can to make a difference in this world. Those mind battles arise sometimes and tell you a negative report. If you look around you can see many Christian works that are unfruitful. That work you did that seems so small and insignificant was true and righteous and faithful.

Look at Noah. He was a righteous man. He was calling people to repentance. For a long 120 years he built by faith a ship as he was told to do. Well look at the results. Only he and his family, and many animals were delivered from the (tribulation) wrath of God. Bottom line? His success was that he obeyed God and was delivered and lived a long life in prosperity.

After sharing Jesus with a beggar this week, That anointing of grace came on him and he was under my spiritual tent. He started quoting a lot of scriptures and actually was like a member in the body of Christ. How that is that all the members in a assembly come and share what is on their heart but in accord with the same message. example: If God was leading about law and grace. Different members would be sharing by their gifts or what God showed them before the meeting maybe during the week. What everyone would be saying with be in line with the topic God is trying to express.

I shared with him and he would come back with a custom fit scripture. If God can and he will get rid of all the self seeking flesh major wonders will come forth by the Holy Spirit. In the mean time stay in the word and believe God to speak to you personally. Believe you me, God loves to talk and leave your jaws dropping. He also gets personal in a positive way--not always rebuking.

In times of persecution (now), God is pouring out more comfort than we all can handle. That is, so much it's hard to write it all down. I have a encyclopedia at least 5 feet long. all of it is spiritual from the Holy Spirit and none of it is known unless God told them to someone else. I hope so. I walk in revival every day and can't wait to get up each day.
