I've created a private forum for women that I hope will prove to be a blessing.

You can go to the site which has only one section visible to the public--an announcement section.

Women who want to join should first register/join and then, FROM THE NEW SITE, either send a private message (pm) to admin (if you don't want to use your real email address) or an email to: admin@deeperlifewomen.com

Since the process of adding new members to the private area isn't automated, prospective members should be patient until the admin gets around to manually adding you.

Blessings,
William

I think I need to visit that new website for every woman. How is the registration there? I am planning to join the private forum later, so Iâ€™m just curious if Iâ€™m welcome to the forum.

Hey tivamil,

Welcome to both forums!

It always helps to give us a brief testimony of what He has done in your life, and what He is doing, so we all kind of know where you are coming from.

It is just a matter of starting to post on both sites.

Be sure to read the policies first. Our main goal is to glorify God in all that we do and say. Or, let me say, we try our hardest, anyway!

Blessings,

GWB
