

---

Subject: International Humor

Posted by james on Fri, 23 Sep 2011 18:28:47 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Those Aussies...

This is a real exchange I witnessed today between an American, an Australian, and a New Zealander (on a Christian forum).

So the American (Yankee) guy is challenging a statement by the Kiwi and says to the effect, "saying that that is true doesn't make it true any more than saying I'm your Huckleberry."

So the Kiwi(New Zealand) says, "Sorry pal, but your colloquialism goes right over my head."

An Aussie chimes in with, "Sorry mate, but for us down under, isn't everything over our heads?"

Speaking of Aussies, a Sincere shoutout to our fellow Christians 'down under'...

btw: being someones 'Huckleberry' means 'your man for the job', or 'your guy'...saying made popular by Doc Holliday in the western movie 'Tombstone'.

---