I don't know if any of you have had the chance to check out any of Malcolm Webber's MP3s, but if you get the chance, you won't be sorry.

It seems as if his experiences have somewhat mirrored our own post-FA walk.

I've got a link at the bottom of the page. I'm removing the link to Joe Brenneman's blog since there hasn't been much activity. It is interesting to see how different brothers with similar opportunities have seemingly (imo) different trajectories with regard to discipleship and ministry.

Blessings,
William

Sorry Hombre, I shouldn't have assumed that everyone knew him.

He is a brother that moved to FA from Australia in the 80s. I knew him from some of the prayer meetings that were going on at the time. It is my understanding he became pastor of FA after Steve Hill left. I think Steve was the one who passed the torch.

Just pick out any of the mp3s and you'll see that he is a very passionate preacher/teacher and seems to be solid in his theology. (Only one exception, but I'll not explain!<grin>)

I don't know anything about his short stint as FA's pastor, or the nature of his departure, but he has a shared history with us and it is remarkable that he is one of the very few (that I know) still standing.

Blessings,
William

Where do we get Malcom's messages to download. Is there a link to some website? I would be interested in what he has to say.

Thanks,

Robert

There is a link below under the heading "Other sites of interest" to Malcolm's site and also under the "Paltalk" link you can find Joe Brenneman's messages (you mentioned being interested in a message he did in another post.)

Blessings,
William

Anyone know what's happened to Malcolm? The last I checked, there hasn't been any new teachings in a long time. I think he was travelling a lot but as senior pastor, it seems there should occasionally be something new showing up.

He is on FaceBook. I receive many encouraging scriptures and quotes from him.

Maybe you could message him?

I seldom log onto forums but I've never gotten into social networking sites like Facebook. No convictions, just not my thing.
