I keep hearing that anyway. I have a link below to a video someone sent me about the The Large Hadron Collider (LHC) I've been seeing stuff like this for a while. This latest link came from someone in the faith message.

Basically the collider is used to accelerate particles "almost" at the speed of light in opposite directions and collide them. Very very very expensive. They think they will gain some serious scientific knowledge from it. I think they're right. Leaving aside the spiritual I think it is very interesting.

The LHC is the largest machine in the world. It took thousands of scientists, engineers and technicians decades to plan and build, and it continues to operate at the very boundaries of scientific knowledge.

The issue here is a lot of xians believe it will open the door to the demonic realm and opening the door to a lot of end time events. The rapture being one. I'm also hearing a lot of end time stuff is going to happen in Sept. Stock market crash etc. So is the sky falling? Do we need to sell our houses and escape to the country?

I normally wouldn't say anything but this talk is on every hand. While it is possible Sept could bring some serious problems in the world I seriously doubt we are seeing the bottomless pit being opened etc.

I don't think it is time for the really serious end time stuff to start. Even if some serious stuff happens this Sept (and I doubt it) Its just the world going on as usual. Wars happen stock market goes up and down the world goes on.

What the YouTube video is saying is that The Collider may open a black hole which they are linking to Rev. 9 ie. the opening of the bottomless pit. A lot of stuff like that.

They are also taking the symbols and logos used for the Cern collider and making hay out of it. You can see the 666 in their logo for eg. Also they link some occult stuff to it.

I think that is true. The problem is it is true for a lot of stuff in the world. Without going into all kinds of unedifying detail the devil and his demons have their finger in a lot of logos as well as much art and pictures and buildings etc. Stuff like that logo is everywhere in our western world.

If you're wondering about what I just said ask the Lord to open your eyes.

This is quite an impressive machine. I just wished I had a job where I could watch particles collide all day. LOL All kidding aside there are some fascinating things going on in the world of science.

It appears like men are tampering with the creation, while trying to create something so they can be like God. Technology has come along ways today, we have people who are trying to create robots that have an artificial intelligence, rockets traveling through outer space taking pictures and you name it.

I cannot help but to think that men spend a whole life time trying to understand this creation, how it works, how they can use it to their advantage, but are only scratching the surface. I believe the farther they look it becomes even more complex, as they keep finding more things they did not know even existed. There appears to be no end to how complex this world really is. Remember the old song, In the year 5555 that's if man is still alive.

Just in my life time there has been huge changes in the world of technology and science. What is interesting is, where it all came from. God created a universe with a world in it called earth, then He took some of the dirt from the earth and created a human being, from there He took a rib out of the mans body and created another human being. Men to this day are trying to understand the creation, that God formed by faith.

In reality this life is like an illusion, here today and gone tomorrow. I don't know if mankind will ever fully understand in a life time, what the Lord created in a matter of a few days. I always loved science fiction as a youth and here we are seeing a lot of things coming to pass that was written in these fiction books by scientists years ago. At least men are striving to make them work.

In 10 trillion, billion, million years from now we will still exist and still have an eternity to look forward to. I don't think its possible to even comprehend this with the finite mind.

Just trying to make a point here that no matter what men accomplish it could never compare to what the Lord is capable of doing. But the farther men look into this created order the more we see that God is far above anything we can even began to comprehend. Everything the Lord created is beyond what we can even understand as humans.

In other words, God is pretty amazing. I am so glad He called us into His Kingdom.

Mark,

Talking about the end times, someone told me last night that there is something going around about a recent prophecy that says, There is going to be a meteorite that will hit the earth around the 23rd or 24th of this month. The individual said; that God clearly showed him this information. Nasa supposedly is saying this is not true, while they can see this meteorite in outer space, the calculations are saying it will miss earth. Someone had questioned; why is Nasa making a statement concerning a prophecy?

The prophecy is stating that it is going to happen during the next blood moon which is around this same time of this month.

I don't know if you have heard this information, its one of those situations that we just have to wait and see if it is going to happen or not.

Last night was the first time I had heard of this, but the individual who told us this said, it was going around in a lot of Christian circles.

I do know, that there is a lot of unrest going on in the world. Jesus said you would be hated by all nations. Take for instance this lady recently in the news who refused to marry some gay people. In the first place, when someone does not do their job in most situations, they are generally fired and sent home. For some reason in this case, the local judge sent her to jail and it has become an issue in society. This has become big news for the liberal media to report. I don't know either way whether she should of made an issue of this, but it was her decision, and it has made major news and the liberal media is trying to prove a point, namely I think of it as, "silencing what Christians think", concerning sin in society.

Why did they not fire her and go on, as they would do when someone does not do the job their being paid to do, why make a big deal about her religion? Of all the religions in the world its only Christianity that speaks out against "sin", which the world does not want to hear about "sin".

Herod and his wife did not want to hear what John the Baptist had to say about their sin, its no different today. Most are living together in fornication, adultery, and refusing to marry, while the gay community are screaming they want to get married.

By sin being so open and accepted by society we find they become quite vocal when speaking against Christianity, (they take strength in their numbers), not realizing that Christians are only stating what God has revealed in His Word. Basically society is speaking out against God.

Listen to another news story: a famous black man, drugs and rapes around fifty women (at the last count), over a period of time, this story just becomes a regular report and we see the authorities doing nothing. Why isn't society in an uproar over this and why is not the liberal media demanding an answer on this one?

While society flaunts its sinfulness before the whole world, life goes on and there appears to be no retribution for its actions. Christianity is the only "salt" burning the wound and is a voice or conscience that reminds men of what God is saying.

In God's timing judgement will come, while the storm clouds are gathering in the heavens. In the distance the thunder is rumbling, and now we are in the calm before the great storm.

Whether a meteorite will fall from the sky soon I don't know, but when you hear stuff like this it makes you wonder is this going to happen?

Anyway like I said last night was the first I had heard of this prophecy, I don't know if you got wind of this prophecy up there.

The same individual gave me another prophecy that was given years ago, it went something like this but not word for word; There is coming a time when masses of refugees would spread across Europe and many in the European countries would shut them out, then later great tragedy would fall on Europe and the people in Europe, would try to escape to other countries and "they" the other countries, would mock her and turn her away as she did to them.

I thought that was interesting in light of what we see going on over there now.

There is going to be a meteorite that will hit the earth around the 23rd or 24th of this month.

I heard that too. For that to actually happen if it was of any significant size would be a cataclysm of Book of Revelation proportions.

Incidentally there is a lot of evidence that there was an asteroid that hit the earth in the undated past. Well they date it but I don't. Hit with the force of 1000's of atomic bombs. I have some ideas about that as well as the age of the earth I've been wanting post on for a while but haven't really thought it through.

Lets just say at this point that I don't believe it's billions or even millions of years old. Problem is 6000 yrs doesn't cut it either.

In God's timing judgement will come, while the storm clouds are gathering in the heavens. In the distance the thunder is rumbling, and now we are in the calm before the great storm.

Yup I completely agree.
